steps to lease the lands in question, at a nominal sum, but which would still keep the title in them. The settlers on these lands claim the right of preëmption to them; and urge that allurements were held out to them, by the Legislature, to enter upon and cultivate them; that they were guaranteed the right of occupancy free of charge until they are brought into msrket, and the right to purchase them then, at their appraised value. It is contended that the bond holders were not ignorant of their guarantees; that they were repeated in the law under which the lands are conveyed; and if they wanted the right to lease them, they should nave spoken in time.

The settlers ask no more, (says the Ottoway Free Trader) than that their rights should be respected, and the policy of the State adhered to. That policy was to encourage the settlement of these lands, and to bring them into market sufficiently fast to meet the wants of the country. If they lease these lands now—lands to which they have already a perpetual lease—and pay a "nominal rent," next year, having conceded the right to lease them, they may be required to pay a real rent, and that may continue to be increased or diminished according to the caprice of the Trustees forever, and if a good rent can be collected from these lands, they may never be brought into market. It is the attempt, or at least the danger of an attempt, to create a servile tenure of this kind to these lands, that the settlers resist, and it is perfectly idle to imagine that they will ever submit to it.

A counterfeit ten dollar bill of the Trenton Bank of New Jersey, has been presented at the Bank. It is the first counterfeit of the kind. Its whole appearance is different from that of the genuine notes. At the top of the notes is an engraving of Minerva sitting, and a ship in full sail; at the right end a large figure of Minerva standing; and at the bottom the English cost of arms. The signatures are fairly executed. The note is dated Oct. 21, 1845, and made payable to J. Cook. The engravers's names are Harris & Sealy, New York.

Markets Carefully reported for The Tribune.

COTTON—The sales to-day have been 600 bales, one half of which was taken for export, the other for manufacturing. Since our weekly review of the market of latinst, we have received later accounts from Liverpool per Caledonia to 19th October; that market was not lower than our previous quotations per Great Western, though at the last dates holders were willing sellers in consequence of the advanced rate of discount domanded by the Bank of England and the certainty of a large amount of Bread Stuffs being required before another harvest, and the consequent apprehension of money becoming still more valuable. These accounts, for a day or two after their receipt, created no change in the prices of Cotton. Accounts from the South, however, representing the weather as being most favorable for the gathering of the residue of the crop and for the maturing of the second growth of the Cotton Plant, and the increased estimates as to the extent of the prese it crop, caused holders on Wednesday and Thursday to be more anxious sellers, and a decline of ict. was submitted to. The desire to sell has continued up to this day, and the arrivals for the week ending this evening being close on to 12,000 sire to sell has continued up to this day, and the arrivals for the week ending this evening being close on to 12,000 bales, purchasers have had a setter selection, and, taking advantage of the disposition to sell, have succeeded in establishing a decline since this day week of three-eights to half a cent if ib. The sales have been 4,200 bales, about 3,000 of which has taken by spinners—the residue for exports, mostly to ports in the South of Europe—the market closing to-day with a downward tendency, at the following quotations:

DASHES AT LIFE, NO. 5, DASHES AT LIFE, NO. 5,

WITH A FREE PENCIL: By N. P. Willis.—The fifth and has part of the Dashes at Life will be published to morrow.

"It is a severe test to expose an author, to pick up his paragraphs and hash them around with other men's works. But Willis will bear it. They are worth collecting, just as the rubbish in a gold-beater's shop, and they are drawn together in the same way, a publishers quicksliver giving impulse to the particles. It is one of the greatest bunders in the world to suppose a book, per sc, a great saffair—to prefer a dull historian for instance to a brillian tessayist. Epigrammalists may be great writers—witness Jean Paul, who is scarcely any thing else. Willis shines in these droppings of thought, which is like the shot from a tower, fall from so high a facey that they are perfect and entire as they reach the paper. Other men's pancake are his pearls."

SPECIAL NOTICE to the Bald-Headed.—It being literally true that the Extract of Cortex, discovered by James Lawless, 124 Fulton-street, Brooklyn, will restore hair to the bald-headed, I feel that I have no right to keep this most important discovery from the general knowledge of the public, notwithstanding that they have been so outrageously deceived and humbugged on this kead by all sorts of pretenders and quacks. I fearlessly assert, then, that my EXTRACT OF CORTEX will restore Hair to the Bald, prevent Hair from falling out, and preserve a fresh, glossy appearance of the Hair, by keeping active its vital and self-renewing principle. For the proof of this, I will refer those who may call, in good faith, to persons of the utmost respectability, who will testify unequivocally, and from their own experience to its truth.

For By two applications, of the Hair Wash prepared by me, the Hair is effectually prevented from failing out.
